From Consumerism to Community

What is it like to be freed from slavery to consumerism and experience authentic community in our congregations and in our lives?

The gospel gives us the answer and the opportunity.

Join others from across the Presbyterian and Reformed families for two days of worship, connection, training, gospel teaching, prayer, and inspiration.

These two days can fuel your next year of ministry!

Special pre-Gathering events for both the Fellowship and ECO

C.S. LEWIS INSTITUTE
Discipleship of Heart and Mind

C. S. Lewis Fellows Program

The C.S. Lewis Fellows Program offers a year of intensive discipleship that leads to significant life-change. Unlike many discipleship programs, the Fellows program focuses on discipleship of both heart and mind. It involves Bible study, classic readings, lectures, group processing, personal spiritual mentoring and accountability - all in the context of a small group of likeminded believers. This year-long program is designed for those who want to live as fully committed disciples of Jesus Christ and make an impact for him in the world. Contact Stephen Eyre @ 513-255-6360 for more information.

Pre-Gathering Events

Monday, August 18th from 9:00-Noon

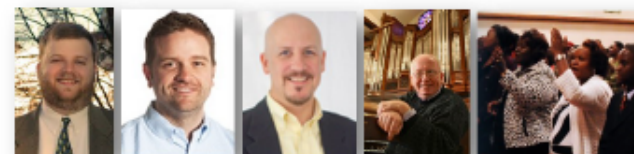

ECO Synod Meeting

Elected commissioners to The Synod—ECO's equivalent of General Assembly—will meet to guide and shape the emerging witness of this new denomination.

"Speaking of Sex..." with Debra Hirsch

Everywhere we turn, human sexuality is shaping our culture. Human sexuality is a gift from God, but God's people in the Church are often the most ill-prepared to talk about sex. Meanwhile, pornography is rampant, divorce rates are on the rise, issues of sexual orientation are dividing congregations and denominations, and multiple generations in our congregations have questions we are not answering. Learn how to start the conversations here.
